TENNESSEE CHRISTIAN

Volume IV Issue XXII

from the Head

Education at Tennessee Christian is multifaceted, including arts, athletics, and academics, preparing each student for a well-lived life. Our mission is more than just the three As. Being a Christian school, the mission is to educate and guide each student toward understanding and owning their faith and God's calling for them in their lives.

Last week, Ms. Frye, our music teacher, came to me and told a story about my son, Martin Henry. At first, Ms. Frye said she needed to tell me something Martin noted in class. Immediate dread sets in for me, wondering what my boy said to the class. Ms. Frye, reading my immediate emotions, comforted me and said that it was sweet and thoughtful. Ms. Frye talked to the 4th grade class about God's calling on their lives. Ms. Frye told the students about her calling and then asked them what they thought their calling might be. The answers varied widely from student to student. Ms. Frye said that when she asked Martin what he thought, he paused for a second and thoughtfully replied, I think I am being called to be a pastor. Ms. Frye said that she was filled with joy and excitement. As a father, I can relate.

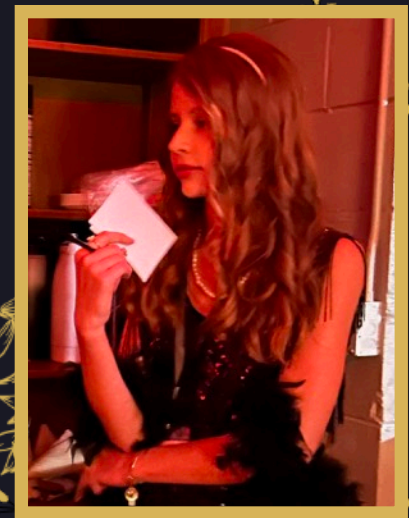

Now, Martin, being a pastor or not, is many years away, but the critical idea is that our students are learning and desiring to share the gospel with all around them, relying on God's grace and love to guide them. Thank you to all the teachers at Tennessee Christian who pour into the lives of our students!

Last Friday night, February 9, the eighth grade class gathered to participate in the second annual “Murder Mystery Night.” Mr. Mullins’ classroom was transformed into a Speakeasy in the midst of the Roaring 20’s. The eighth graders showed up in their finest 20’s attire, donning suits and flapper dresses. Each student was given a character to portray, and a mysterious murder mystery scenario was acted out. The night was filled with laughter, intrigue, and accusations. It was definitely a memorable way to wrap up their unit studying the Roaring 20’s.

OMADA

We are now just over half way through the year in our Omada competitions! Just as anticipated, this has been a highly competitive year and the race for first place is still up for grabs! In January, we concluded the final round of a Tennessee Christian staple, Hawk Ball! Aletheia took 1st place in both JV Boys and Varsity Girls, while Tharsos earned 1st place in JV Girls and with a game winning goal in the final seconds against Phos, narrowly achieved 1st place in Varsity Boys!

Last Wednesday, a new game was introduced: Trivia/Relay! Teams competed against each other in a Trivia round for advantages leading into a Relay Race round. Aletheia proved to have both the brains and the brawn, taking home 1st place in both JV and Varsity! Rounding out the JV standings, Phos achieved 2nd, leaving Tharsos in 3rd. In the Varsity competition, Tharsos took 2nd and Phos 3rd.
